Canadian Access Federation

Members can enjoy discounted pricing to participate in the Canadian Access Federation (CAF). CAF provides a trusted identity and access management environment for the Canadian research and education community. CAF post-secondary institution participants are given access to a growing suite of identity-related services, which today include eduroam and Federated Single Sign-on (FSSO).

Post-secondary institutions that participate in CAF enjoy meaningful process and cost efficiencies, while supporting an increasingly mobile community of students, staff, and faculty. CANARIE currently supports approximately 9 million eduroam logins per month, and the CAF community has grown by 90% since 2012.

Service and content providers who participate simplify their access protocols and administrative costs while reaching a broad community of higher education students, researchers, and faculty.

CANARIE Event Sponsorship Program

The CANARIE National Summit provides a preview of Canada’s digital economy by showcasing Canadian innovation in the public and private sectors.

CANARIE members can increase their exposure to and collaboration with Canada’s research, education and innovation communities by sponsoring the CANARIE National Summit.

The 2015 National Summit drew nearly 175 senior leaders from the higher education, not-for-profit, government and private sectors. Speakers addressed a range of topics, including robotics, wearables, and medical technologies. Attendees reported high satisfaction with the event, with an overall satisfaction assessment of 90%. An overwhelming majority of participants said they would recommend the Summit to colleagues.
